

Anne And The Kind Teacher

CHARIS YEBOAH

ANNE AND THE KIND TEACHER

Copyright © Calculus Publications Limited 2025

All rights reserved. No part of this book may be reproduced or transmitted in any form or by means, electronic or mechanical, including photocopying, recording, storage in an information retrieval system

ISBN: 978 - 9988 -8914-4-2

Edited by: Eric Nyame

Illustration by: Alexander Amoako

Published By: Calculus Publications Limited

P.O. BOX AD1222

Adabraka, Accra - Ghana.

Tel: 054 829 6741 / 020 44 24 784 / 020 66 22 881 / 024 45 49 721

Email: calculusy@yahoo.com

PREFACE

This story is about a little girl's journey as she starts at Sunshine Nursery. With the guidance of her kind teacher, Miss Lila, Anne navigates the challenges of a new environment and learns valuable lessons about sharing, helping others, listening, and being kind. As she makes new friends and adjusts to school life, Anne discovers the joy of being part of a community.

Through her experiences, she realizes that kindness and helpfulness can make a significant difference in her own happiness and the well-being of those around her. By the end of the week, Anne feels proud and happy, having learned important social skills that will benefit her as she continues to grow and learn.

This story celebrates the importance of kindness, friendship, and positivity in a child's educational journey.

CONTENT

Chapter 1

Anne's First Day.....1

Chapter 2

Learning And Sharing.....9

Chapter 3

A Little Help.....17

Chapter 4

Learning To Listen.....24

Chapter 5

A Special Surprise.....30

Vocabulary.....35

Comprehension Questions.....37

Chapter 1

Anne's First Day

Anne was very excited. Today was her first day at Sunshine Nursery. She wore her bright yellow dress and shiny shoes.

She held her little bag tightly.

“I hope I make many friends,” she said to herself.

When Anne reached the school, she saw a big playground. There were slides, swings, and a sandbox.

Anne holding her bag, looking excited in front of the school

Some children were running and laughing. Anne felt a little shy.

A kind voice called, “Hello! You must be Anne. I am Miss Lila, your teacher.”

Anne looked up and saw a lady with a warm smile. Miss Lila bent down and held out her hand. Anne took it and smiled back.

“Don’t worry, Anne. You will have a fun day,” Miss Lila said.

Anne followed Miss Lila to the classroom. The room was full of colorful books, toys, and drawings. There were chairs and tables just Anne's size.

“Look at all the toys, Miss Lila!” Anne said.

“Yes, Anne. You can play after Storytime,” Miss Lila said gently.

Anne sat down and watched as other children came in. She saw a boy named Tom and a girl named Mary. “Hi! I'm Anne,” she said.

“Hi, Anne! Come play with us,” said Mary.

When the bell rang, Miss Lila clapped her hands. “Children, it is storytime!” Everyone sat down. Anne listened carefully as Miss Lila read a story about a brave little rabbit.

Anne loved the story. She wanted to tell her friends about it, but she waited until Miss Lila finished. After the story, Miss Lila asked, “Who wants to draw the rabbit?”

Anne raised her hand. Miss Lila gave her some crayons and a sheet of paper.

Anne drew the rabbit with big eyes and a happy smile. Miss Lila looked at her drawing and said,

Anne happy drawing a rabbit with crayons

“Anne, that is wonderful! You have drawn it so nicely.”

Anne felt proud. She looked around. All the children were smiling. She thought, This is going to be a great place.

At the end of the day, Anne’s mother came to pick her up. Anne ran to her and said, “Mom, I met the kindest teacher ever! Her name is Miss Lila.”

Her mother smiled.

“I’m glad you like your school, Anne.”

Anne waved goodbye to her new friends. She couldn’t wait to see them again.

Chapter 2

Learning And Sharing

The next day, Anne came early to school. She wanted to play with Tom and Mary before storytime.

Miss Lila welcomed her with a smile. “Good morning, Anne. Are you ready for a fun day?”

“Yes, Miss Lila!” Anne said happily.

The children started with a puzzle activity. Anne worked with Mary. They laughed when they tried to fit the big puzzle pieces together.

“We did it!” shouted Anne as they completed the puzzle.

“Great teamwork!” said Miss Lila.

After puzzles, it was snack time. Anne saw some children sitting alone.

She remembered how lonely she felt on the first day.

Anne went to a boy named Sam.
“Do you want some of my crackers?” she asked.

Anne sharing her snack with Sam at lunch

Sam smiled. “Yes, please. Thank you, Anne.”

Miss Lila noticed Anne sharing her snack. She said, “Anne, that was very kind of you. Sharing is caring.”

Anne felt happy. She wanted to be kind to everyone.

Later, Miss Lila called the children to the circle. “Today, we will learn about colours. Can anyone name a colour?”

“Red!” shouted Tom. “Blue!” said Mary.

The children sitting in a circle, learning colours with Miss Lila

Anne pointed to her dress.
“Yellow!” she said.

“Yes, Anne! That is correct,” said Miss Lila. She showed the children a rainbow chart.

Anne tried to remember all the colours.

After learning about colours, the children played with blocks.
Anne built a tall tower. Tom and Mary helped her. Suddenly, the tower fell.

“Oh no!” cried Anne.

Miss Lila said softly, “It’s okay, Anne. You can try again. Building together is more fun than winning.”

Anne smiled and rebuilt the tower. She learned that helping each other was more important than just finishing first.

At the end of the day, Miss Lila gave each child a sticker. Anne’s sticker had a smiling sun. She felt proud.

Anne’s mother came to pick her up. “I shared my crackers today, Mom. Miss Lila said sharing is caring,” Anne said proudly.

Her mother hugged her. “That’s wonderful, Anne. I am so proud of you.”

Anne waved goodbye to her friends. She felt happy in her heart.

Chapter 3:

A Little Help

One morning, Anne saw a boy named Ben trying to tie his shoes. “I can help you, Ben,” she said.

Ben smiled. “Thank you, Anne. I can’t do it by myself.”

Anne showed him how to make the loops and tie the knot. Ben tried again and smiled. “I did it!”

Miss Lila came by and said,
“That was very kind of you,
Anne.

Helping friends is wonderful.”

Anne planting a small flower seed in the garden

Later, the children went outside to plant flowers in the school garden. Anne carefully dug a small hole and put in a tiny seed.

“Planting seeds is fun!” Anne said.

Miss Lila explained, “We need to water the seeds and care for them. Soon, flowers will grow.”

Anne was excited. She promised to water the flowers every day.

During snack time, Anne noticed a girl, Lily, sitting alone.

“Would you like some juice?”
Anne asked.

Lily nodded and smiled. Anne poured some juice into a cup for her.

Anne giving juice to Lily.

“You are very kind, Anne,” said Miss Lila.

Anne felt warm inside. She realized that being helpful made everyone happy, including herself.

In the afternoon, the children drew pictures of their families. Anne drew her parents and her little brother. She showed it to Miss Lila.

“Anne, your picture is beautiful,” Miss Lila said. “You took time to make it special.”

Anne clapped her hands with joy. She learned that helping and caring made school a happy place.

At the end of the day, Anne's mother asked, "What did you do today, Anne?"

"I helped Ben tie his shoes, shared juice with Lily, and planted flowers," Anne said proudly.

Her mother smiled and hugged her. "I am so proud of you, Anne.

You are learning to be kind and caring.”

Anne waved goodbye to her friends. She couldn't wait for another day to help more friends.

Chapter 4:

Learning To Listen

One day, Miss Lila asked the children to sit quietly. “We will play a listening game,” she said.

Anne was excited. She liked games. Miss Lila explained, “I will clap my hands, and you have to listen carefully and follow my instructions.”

The first instruction was to touch your nose.

Anne touched her nose quickly.
Then Miss Lila said, “Now hop three times.” Anne hopped and laughed.

The children following Miss Lila's instructions in the listening game

Next, Miss Lila said, “Clap your hands twice and sit down.” Anne did it perfectly.

“Good listening, Anne! Listening helps us learn and follow rules,” Miss Lila said.

Later, during storytime, Anne listened to a story about a kind elephant. She learned that listening carefully helped the elephant help his friends.

After the story, Miss Lila asked, “Who can tell me one thing from the story?”

Anne raised her hand. “The elephant helped his friends by listening to them,” she said.

“Very good, Anne,” Miss Lila said.

During playtime, Anne noticed that some children were arguing over blocks. Anne remembered what she learned about listening. She asked, “Can we listen to each other and share?”

Tom and Mary nodded. They listened to each other, and soon everyone was happy.

At the end of the day, Anne told her mother, “I learned to listen carefully today. Listening helps everyone get along.”

Anne helping classmates share blocks

Her mother hugged her. “Yes, Anne. Listening is very important. I am proud of you.”

Anne waved goodbye to her friends and thought about all the things she learned. She was happy to have a kind teacher and nice friends.

Chapter 5

A Special Surprise

It was Friday, and Miss Lila had a surprise for the children. “Today is a special day,” she said. “We will have a little party to celebrate your kindness and hard work.”

Anne was very excited. She wore her favorite dress.

The classroom was decorated with colourful balloons and streamers. There were small cakes and fruit juice for everyone.

Classroom decorated with balloons and streamers

Miss Lila said, “I want to give each of you a kindness star for all the good things you did this week.”

Anne receiving her golden kindness star

During the party, the children sang songs and danced. Anne held hands with her friends and laughed happily.

“Miss Lila, thank you for being kind to us,” Anne said.

Miss Lila smiled. “You are all kind and helpful. That makes my heart happy.”

At the end of the party, Miss Lila said, “Remember, being kind and helpful is important every day, not just at school.”

Anne nodded. She promised herself to be kind every day, to help friends, share, listen, and care.

When her mother came to pick her up, Anne ran to her. “Mom, we had a special party today! I got a kindness star!”

Her mother smiled. “I am so proud of you, Anne. You have learned so much this week.”

Anne waved goodbye to her friends. She felt happy, proud, and ready to be kind every day.

Vocabulary

- Kind – friendly and helpful
- Share – to give something to someone else
- Listening – paying attention to hear and understand
- Care – to help and be gentle

- . Friendship – being friends with someone
- . Excited – feeling happy and eager

Comprehension Questions

1.What was Anne's first day at school like?

2.Who was Anne's teacher?

3.Name two things Anne learned at school.

4.How did Anne help her friends?

5.What did Anne receive at the party?

6.Why is listening important?

7. How did Anne feel at the end of the week?